

A PERFORMANCE SERIES
to benefit South Shore Peer Recovery

Virtually Rocking Recovery on May 14th – Check out this lineup (in order of performance):

Jay Psaros is a singer, songwriter who grew up in the Northeast and recently opened his own recording studio in Scituate (Jay is credited with producing the show as well as performing). In the past several years, Jay has headlined across the region with Boz Scaggs, Daughtry, Third Eye Blind, Ziggy Marley, Lisa Loeb and others. Whether performing with his 7-piece band or as a solo artist, Jay's intimate storytelling creates a memorable and poignant experience!

Annemarie Whilton is a Cohasset resident, mother of three, artist, and art teacher. She is currently the chair of Safe Harbor Cohasset, a drug prevention coalition, and is a fierce and devoted advocate for her daughter, who has substance use disorder, and all others who struggle like her. In her art and writing she embraces the "grey" areas in life in order to appreciate the nuanced, shared process of living, and she invites all to read her blog,

Jimmy Ryan is a comedian from Scituate who shared the stage last year at Comics for a Cause to benefit South Shore Peer Recovery. Jimmy has had growing success performing at clubs in New York, including the Broadway Comedy Club last fall.

Jen Mauceri is a comedian from Scituate who also performed at Comics for a Cause and has been performing at clubs and shows around the region. Known as "Flo Waters" Boston Duck Tour Captain, Jen says, "I am a 6-foot-two, left-handed, red-headed, dyslexic, alcohol/drug-addicted parent of three wonderful teenagers. If I can laugh, so can you!"
